NEW FAIRMOUNT PARK

NEW FAIRMOUN! PARK

Mills Ordinance to Be Discussed by Citizens at Meeting This Afternoon. Citizens of the Fairmount section, who are anxious to secure a park, will meet a Council subcommittee on Grounds and Buildings, consisting of Messrs. Adams, Powers and Atkinson, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to decide upon the most available site. The Mills ordinance provides for a park on what is known as Brauer's lake, north of the car tracks, in Redd Street, and south of the Mechanicsville Turnpike. The lot contains about seven acres. The idea is to convert the old Brauer property into a lake, to be supplied by the city with water. The new Fairmount school and the proposed park will face the lake, making an ideal respet for the people of the annexed territory. Council will be urged to appropriate $15,000 for the work.

But What'll You Do With the Family Surrey?

Because you can afford an auto it doesn't follow that you can afford to have a good family surrey or buggy standing in the shed as dead capital. You'd better convert it into hard cash as quickly as you can.

And remember this: the longer it stands idle, the more the paint will peel, the more the rust will corrupt, the shabbier it will look, and the cheaper you will have to sell it.

Another thing-if you have a vivid memory of what you put out for it, and don't want it to go as charity-by all means don't be compelled to sell it to your neighbors or your relatives. You'll get the short end of it. They always expect a big discount on friendship. You'll be obliged to give it to them because they happen to know some of your little foibles and shortcomings. Make a business deal of it. Sell it to a total stranger who really wants it as badly as you want to get rid of it. You can make a deal with him that will be a bargain for both of you. Mr. White closed the algebraic and figures, a powerful array of facts and figures. He estimated that during the past year the missionaries in the field, at present about 13,000, had made an average of 2,700 converts a week; that even with their ministrations there are 875, 1009,000 heatinen unreached by any missionary; and that to put an intelligible account of the Christian religion within the reach of every human being would require 20,000 hissionaries and an outlay of $40,000,000 a year from the Christian world, of which the United States and Canada would have to supply one-half.

"The records show," said Mr. White, "that every $2 expended in mission work during the past year, on the naverage, resulted in one conversion. There is no investment on the globe that can equal it."

"I found," explained the other, "that there was one establishment—Burrelle's press clipping bureau—in New York which had been in existence a great many years. I found many small bureaus, but instead of reading 1,500 newspapers a day, as the Burrelle's bureau does, they might possibly read half that number in a month. I found Burrelle's was the largest in the world, and that they didn't charge any more than incomplete bureaus; so I selected Burrelle's.

than incomplete bureaus; so I selected Burrelle's.

"Now, here is the strango result. For two or three months I received a few clippings where my name was mentioned. But one day the ferryboat on which I was a passenger collided with another boat. I was not injured, but my sultease, containing some valuable material, was lost.

"The next day acounts appeared in the papers of the accident, and as my name was mentioned, the Burrelle people sent me all the items.

"Here's the sequel. I put in a claim against the ferryboat company to cover what I had lost in my sultease. The question arose whether I could brove that I was on the boat at all. I knew of no one who had actually seen me on the boat. My lawyer told me I had no case.

"Then I had an inspiration. I went to my clippings. There I found in the printed stories a list of ten people who had been on the boat. In two days I had six people who had seen me on the boat. I collected my damages."
